How to prepare for SLAT 2023 PI-WAT?

If you are shortlisted after taking the SLAT, you will be required to take the PI-WAT. The PI-WAT is the second round of admission. This is the fundamental personality evaluation stage, which includes group discussions, essay writing, and a personal interview. The topic of the essay is not disclosed ahead of time, and they want to assess your originality, writing abilities, critical thinking, and so on. Group discussions are used to assess your communication abilities and confidence. The trick to solving this is to utter a few but impactful words. Careful not to be overly forceful.

Additionally, don't just sit there; speak out if you have an opinion. Say anything you want, but ensure that there's a clear logical sense to your statements. To be able to make balanced statements, you should be informed of what is going on in the globe. To prepare specifically for this round, I read a lot of newspapers and tried to analyze things from a neutral and holistic perspective.

How to prepare for SLAT 2023 Interview Round?

The interview is the third round. It’s generally quite simple, with questions about you, your interests, and other such things. You an Google the most often requested interview questions. However, my personal suggestion is to be prepared with a few notes on who you are, why you’re interested in pursuing law and why you’d be a good fit for the institution. Along with that, you can also keep handy a set of instances that increased your inclination towards law as a profession.

Which subject requires more time in SLAT?

SLAT requires you to prepare mostly for General Knowledge and Legal Aptitude, since you will be dealing with situations based on Principles and Facts. Hence, you should concentrate on current events and keep in mind that reading the news/pointersis not enough; you must also collect background material, additional data, historical events connected to the present event, and so on in order to have a 360-degree view of an issue. Static GK or General Knowledge questions that are directly or indirectly relevant to Current Affairs are often asked.

Along with that, I’d advise you to work more on reading-comprehension the most since that would help you attempt other sections with utmost ease and accuracy.
