Answer Key and Detailed Explanations

Q. No.	Answer	Explanation
1	C	The Supreme Court in Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala , AIR 1973 SC 1461, laid down the Basic Structure Doctrine, limiting Parliament's power to amend the Constitution under Article 368.
2	A	Judicial review stems from Article 13(2) (prohibiting the State from making laws violating fundamental rights) and Article 32 (right to constitutional remedies).
3	A	The 1st Constitutional Amendment Act, 1951 introduced the Ninth Schedule to protect land reform laws from judicial review.

4	D	Uniform Civil Code is a Directive Principle under Article 44 and not a valid ground for restricting free speech under Article 19(2).
5	C	In S.R. Bommai v. Union of India, (1994) 3 SCC 1, the SC held that secularism is part of the basic structure of the Constitution.
6	A	The 86th Amendment Act, 2002 inserted Article 21A, making education a fundamental right for children aged 6 to 14.
7	C	Article 39A (Directive Principles) mandates equal justice and free legal aid to ensure justice is not denied due to economic constraints.
8	D	In I.R. Coelho v. State of Tamil Nadu (2007), SC held that laws inserted into the Ninth Schedule after 24 April 1973 are open to judicial review, despite Article 31-B. So, none of the listed Articles alone bar judicial review after that date.
9	C	In Minerva Mills v. Union of India, (1980) 3 SCC 625, SC struck down amendments that gave Parliament unlimited power to amend, reaffirming the basic structure limitation.
10	D	The majority in Kesavananda Bharati held that Parliament can amend any part of the Constitution, but not destroy the basic structure.
