UPDATED as of 7:30 PM: As per the latest information available, there is NO postponement of the CLAT exam. Candidates are requested to keep checking the official website or CLATalogue for the latest updates.

With just a day to go for the CLAT exam, aspirants are in a fix. Will CLAT 2022 be postponed? This is a question plaguing the minds of all students.

Insiders privy to the matter tell that the Consortium of NLUs might hold a review meeting today in light of the "Agnipath" scheme protests. Many trains, buses and routes have been shut down with parts of various states facing internet blockades as well.

As a result, many students might face issues in reaching the CLAT exam centre. The Consortium of NLUs has already released a notification advising candidates from Guwahati, Shillong, Imphal, and Gangtok to reach the test centres a day in advance.

The full notification is as follows:

But as the situation in various states worsens, the question looms- will CLAT 2022 be postponed?

Students, especially in and around Haryana are concerned. Many have also took to Twitter to highlight their plight.

> Amidst the aggravated protest, protesters are doing arson and trains from Howrah to Patna are all cancelled. Roads are jammed and protesters are even hurling stones at running trains. What makes you think that travelling via a private vehicle is safe?#CLAT2022#postponeclat2022
